

The Disclosure Decision

Couples considering pursuing 3rd party reproduction-ovum donation, sperm donation, or the use of a gestational carrier have some important decisions to make over what they will share with others, and most importantly their intended child.

This lecture focuses on what the current research has shown us about disclosure and how to best go about the process to best meet the needs of your family.